EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES

This seminar offers students an opportunity to explore European politics and international negotiations through the award-winning simulation game How to Win Brexit?. By taking on the roles of key political actors from the United Kingdom and the European Union, participants will negotiate the Brexit process while balancing political, economic, and institutional interests. The seminar combines experiential learning with guided reflection, enabling students to develop negotiation, communication, and collaborative decision-making skills. The simulation also provides insights into the complexity of EU governance, multilevel policymaking, and the challenges of reaching agreements in highly polarized political contexts. No prior knowledge of Brexit is required, making the seminar accessible to students from different disciplinary backgrounds who are interested in European integration, public policy, and political negotiation. This seminar is part of Crepe nel Mondo, a geopolitics programme organized by UNITiN, the student association of the University of Trento.
